originally published in 1985 frederic c lane and reinhold c mueller in the first volume of money and banking in medieval and renaissance venice discuss venice s economic achievement in terms of the complex system the city s inhabitants developed to manage moneys of account and coins money merchants of venice developed a system whereby a premium attached to moneys of account acted as a stabilizing force and allowed merchants to engage in long term trade this system according to the authors helped establish venice as a dominant city state in international trade and exchange this book outlines the development and success of this system through 1508 at the time it was first published this book made a significant contribution to the history of money and economics by underscoring the large role that Venice played in the economic history of the West and the ascendance of capitalism as a structuring force of society

In the late Middle Ages Italy was one of the most urbanized areas in Europe. Its coasts, the Apennines, the perialpine area, and the plains were all home to a large number of smaller towns, lands, villages, castra, and quasi-cities. These settlements were all very diverse in terms of demographic consistency, social articulation, and economic dynamism, but together they constituted a characteristic and constitutive element of the Italian historical identity. An original personality, this volume thanks to some framing essays and a mapping of individual cases involving most of the northern, central, and southern regions, aims at investigating the active research on this topic over the last thirty to forty years.
